Marrying on Editor.

Yes, I'm Mrs. Peter Snow, an editor's wife. I well remember the day when Mr. Snow asked me to become his wife. I confess, I liked Mr. Snow, and, thinking it would be a very fine thing to be the wite of an editor, I said 'yes,' as pretty as I knew how, and I became Mrs. Snow. partty as I knew how, and I became Mrs. Snow. I have seen ten years of married life, and find my husband to be an amiable, good-natured man. He always spends his evenings at home, and is, in that respect, a model man; but he always brings a pile of exchanges, which is only limited by the length of his arms, and reads, while I patch the knees and elbows of our boy's pantaons and coats. After we have had a Quaker neeting of an hour's length, I break the silence by asking:
"Mr. Snow, did you order that coal I spoke to

"What did you say, my dear?" he usks after tew moment's silence.
"Did you order that coal I spoke to you about!"
"Indeed, my dear, I am sorry, but I forgot the baby's crying, and rather liking to hear a noise of some sort, I make no effort to quiet "My dear," says Mr. Snow, after he has cried minute or so, "you had better give the baby some catnip tes to quiet him, he troubles me."

The baby is still; another hour passes with-out a breath of noise. Becoming tired of silence, It take a lamp, and retire for the night, leaving Mr. S. so engaged with his paper that he does not see me leave the room. Towards midnight he comes to bed, and just as he has fallen to sleep, the baby takes a notion to ery again. I rise as quietly as possible, and try to still him. White I am waking the room with a small Snow in my arms, our next—a boy of three years—begins to scream at the top of his lungs. What can I do! There is no other course but to call Mr. Snow, so I call out:

"Mr. Snow! Mr. Snow!"

"The third time he starts up, and replies:

I What I was a deministrator. Verdict for religious."

"What! Tim, more copy!"
As though I was Tim, that little imp running about the office, I reply, rather tartly:
"No, I don't want any more copy—I have had enough of that to last me my life time—I want to see what Tommy is crying about." Mr. Snow makes a desperate effort to rouse himself; as Tommy stops to take a breath, he claimed on the part of the Bank that it was sent to falls asleep again, leaving me to pace the room in as much vexation as I can comfortably con-Ranney and Hatchins for defence, Andrews and tain. The English Colonizing in South America It is stated that the government of Ecuador, South America, have cancelled a debt owed by them to English capitalists, by ceding to the latter a large tract of valuable land on the river Amazon, resigning the sovereignty of the Re-public over that tract, and permitting the new proprietors to place it under British protection. The terms of the transfer are all concluded, and it is stated that a system of colonization, on the modern plan, will at once be carried out, on a large scale. Steamers are already in course John Landreth, same offence, acquitted.
